Aims of the workcamp

- To engage with the local children and teenagers in daily work using English language and interaction with international and national volunteers
- To participate with local community in setting up their eco-tourism and protect their mangroves forest and fishing area
- To maintain mangrove forest along the sea string to prevent future flood by the sea level rising
- To exchange and learn about Cambodian culture between international, national volunteers and local people.
- To explore unique experience of being able to explore the life feature that has not commonly seen by all.

DESCRIPTION OF WORKCAMP:

The community is located along the sea-string area about 30km from Kampot town so that children are facing difficulty to enroll the language, computer class or any other skills in town. We were suggested by community people to focus on English teaching and to provide some other education materials for children in these communities. In addition, there are also in need of volunteers to work on mangrove field. TrapaingSangke and Kampong Samky fishing communities plan to plant at least ten thousand mangrove trees by 2013. Hence, CYA see this as an opportunity for hosting international volunteers to work on this field. We believe that through organizing voluntary service in these communities, we can help the local communities to develop, plus it will be a good experience for volunteers to work on environmental issues and to explore the living lifestyles of these two communities. TFC welcomes individuals who are passionate about environmental and physical contribution. As an eco-village, you are not only working as active promoters for environmental and sea-life preservation, but enjoying the atmosphere of the natural environment.

COMPLEMENTARY ACTIVITIES - LEISURE ACTIVITIES:

- Meeting people and children for socializing with the local residence on purpose multicultural learning and sharing.
- Organizing educational workshops with kids and teenagers in primary school and secondary school about various topics in environmental education. This activity can't be expected to be regularly implemented that volunteers need to make effort in attracting them into learning as they might not focus primarily on their daily tasks after coming from school.
- Visiting local village in purpose of seeing the real situation of living standard of the family in the village.
- Collecting the mangrove seeds from the mangrove forest, nurse the mangrove seeds, and plant the mangrove trees
- Construct the walking path in the mangrove forest as continuation from the previous work

ACCOMODATION/FOOD:

Volunteers are going to stay in the bungalows provided at the campsite with assistant from a local host. The accommodation is equipped with simple sleeping mattress, blankets, pillows and mosquito nets. There are separated bathroom and toilet where the water is from underground. It is not very perfect but this is what the villagers use, and find it very comfortable for their daily life. The volunteers are going to cook by themselves using the kitchen built by the volunteers from the previous workcamps.

DESCRIPTION OF WORKCAMP:

CYA - LEARNING CENTER (CLC) started in May 2014 and we are now providing a free alternative education for children and teenagers in Praphnom commune, Angkor Chey district, Kampot province. Three classrooms were built and 285 students are now studying English with their international and local volunteer's teachers. CYA Learning Center is now also providing the computer course for the teenagers and one library is now accessing free by CYA-learning Center students and children around the community. Because of the fast development of this project, in 2016, CYA is going to work closely with local people in the community for income generation. For income generation program CYA is going to work on organic farming and handicraft to involve local people in the farming process and making local products for selling in the city. At the same time, CYA also plans to create a weekend market where farming products and handicraft products will be sell here. In 2016, CYA - Learning Center is in needs of more volunteers to help us implementing our project and there will be many things for volunteers to learn from. We welcome all motivated volunteers to join us in making change in this community and learn great thing from this community as well. Join us at CYA Learning Center to bring the parents back home to the village, to bring the children back to school, to make Russeydom a lively village back again for hundreds of families. Join us to support our culture of peace and sustainability.
