

SPANISH INSTITUTE FOR YOUTH (INJUVE)

International Cooperation:

The INJUVE carries out a large number of initiatives based on international cooperation. Among them, the European Union “Youth” and “Cooperating Youth” programs, collaboration with other countries, Work Camps and the promotion of “Youth Mobility”, as well as the participation of different international organizations in the youth field, may be mentioned.

Research and statistics:

In Injuve, Statistical Features, Opinion Questionnaires, Youth Studies and Research Tasks are carried out and kept in a specialized resource fund which may be used through its web site or in its Library.

Youth Information:

The Injuve carries out different programs with the aim of giving information to youth about matters of their concern and contributing to the skills of professionals dedicated to this task.

- Youth Information Network Services
- Diffusion of information through different published material
- Training of information agents

Promotion of Youth Associationism:

Social participation of youth is promoted in this area through the direct support to youth organizations and national-scope entities offering youth services and the initiatives they carry out.

Youth Creation:

The Youth Institute annually announces the “Premios Injuve para la Creación Joven” (Injuve Prizes for Youth Creation) with the aims of promoting the creative activity of young artists and favoring the promotion and diffusion of their work, at the same time as it boosts their incorporation in the professional field.

Euro-Latin-American Youth Centre (CEULAJ)

This is a facility depending from the Injuve located in the town of Mollina (Málaga), dedicated to the performance of activities related with youth training, information and exchange of experiences.

The current Statute of the Youth Institute (INJUVE) establishes two general principles for the actions of this Entity. One of them is the promotion of equal opportunities of young men and women; the other one is the promotion of free and efficient participation of youth in the political, social, economic and cultural development of Spain.

The application of these principles in the different working fields of the INJUVE has entailed, as could be expected, the re-organization of its organic structure, the implementation of new programs and the adaptation of some of the running programs.

Being a dissemination and information tool, the present edition revises the contents with an update of general information about how the INJUVE works and the actions it currently carries out, including a concise outline of all the programs and services developed and the full description of the details of the departments in charge of them. This way, public administrations, social organizations, professionals and technicians of youth organizations and entities, as well as young people, may be better informed and optimize the resources we have at their disposal.
